TOFFICE AT AMBOY ENTERED DURING NIGHT

Little of Value Taken by Robber Who Evidently Took His Time

The Amboy postoffice was broken into at an early hour this morning and thoroughly ransacked, but very little of value was reported to have been taken. John McGowan, night operator at the Illinois Central depot at Amboy, went to the postoffice shortly after 2 o'clock this morning to mail a letter and discovered the heavy plate glass in the front door shattered. He immediately notified Night Officer Louis Scott, who summoned Sheriff Ward Miller and Deputy Gilbert Finch. The miscreant evidently shattered the heavy plate glass in the front door to effect an entrance, then broke the glass in another door in the lobby, to gain entrance to the main office. A safety razor blade was employed in opening several parcel post packages and desks of rural carriers were ransacked. John Mead, one of the rural carriers, missed about a dollar in small change which was taken from his desk.

Roomer Heard Crash
The stamp department at cash drawers were undisturbed, but the general surroundings indicated that the intruder worked deliberately and was in the office for some time, conducting a search of desks and parcel post packages. A thermostat was missing from one package which had been received in the mail last evening for an Amboy electrician.

Russell Glenn, who rooms above the postoffice, told the officers early this morning that he was awakened by the shattering of the plate glass in the front door and heard the intruder walking in the office, but was unable to spread an alarm. Night Officer Louis Scott tried the door at the postoffice about 1:15 then went to the city pumping station where his duties are required at that hour.

The chief loss was the damage to the property and word of the act was forwarded to the postoffice department headquarters at Chicago this morning. A postal inspector was expected to arrive in Amboy this afternoon to conduct an investigation with Sheriff Miller and Deputy Finch.

Confession Starts Hunt in Nation for Counterfeiters

Chicago, Oct. 1.—(AP)—A confession obtained from a Chicago engraver set police on a hunt today for about a dozen persons suspected of complicity in a nationwide counterfeiting plot for which 18 men already have been arrested.

Lieut. Tom Isom of the state's attorney's police said approximately a half million dollars in counterfeit bonds, travelers checks, and liquor and cigarette tax stamps had been issued by the gang.

The police officials said Berger Nanson, the engraver, had confessed manufacturing $165,000 in counterfeit bonds and tax stamps for a gang headed by George "Big" Moran, prohibition era gang leader.

Nanson told Lieut. Kelly, the letter said, the gang had issued $25,000 in spurious Kentucky and Missouri cigarette tax stamps and $40,000 in counterfeit Missouri and Kansas liquor tax stamps. Moran was one of several persons arrested by police investigating a plot to issue $400,000 in spurious New York Central railroad bonds and American Express travelers checks. He is awaiting trial on conspiracy charges.

Three Dixon Youths Injured at Mendota

(Telegraph Special Service.)
Mendota, Oct. 1.—Three Dixon youths, John S. Stewart of 1029 Peoria avenue, Edward Sorbe of 416 Jackson avenue and Robert Meppin of 1007 Fourth street, were injured in an accident here last night when the car in which they were riding swerved and struck a telephone pole.

The crash occurred when the driver, Stewart, threw the wheel to avoid a head-on collision with another car on route 51. Thirtieth avenue near Burlington street.

Stewart was cut about the head and the others received only minor cuts and bruises. They were all treated at the local hospital and dismissed late last night.

The left front of the car was badly damaged and taken to a local garage.

Dogless Town?

According to the records in the office of City Clerk Wayne C. Smith, there are but 47 dogs in the city of Dixon. This small figure represents the number of city dog tax licenses that have been sold since the beginning of the city's fiscal year. Some of the city officials declare that far more than this number of dogs appeared in the pet parade Wednesday afternoon during the Fall Festival program.

SURRENDERS ON INDICTMENT FOR FALSE REPORTS

Chicago, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Alexander J. McKay, who resigned as chairman of the Cook county board of election commissioners late yesterday, surrendered at the United States marshal's office today on a federal indictment for alleged falsification of PWA project reports.

With J. H. McCaughey and J. B. Myster, who were secretaries of McKay's defunct construction company, the former election official was fingerprinted. The three men were released after furnishing $25,000 bonds each.

County Judge Edmund K. Jarocki accepted McKay's resignation soon after the indictments were returned.

Warren Canaday, assistant U. S. district attorney, said in explaining the jury's action that the engineering and construction company once headed by McKay—it's now inactive—had submitted vouchers which implied it had paid $103,149 to sub-contractors on two sewer projects although it had not paid them.

J. H. McCaughey and J. B. Myster, who at one time served as secretaries of McKay's company, also were named in the indictment. McKay denied the charges. He said unexpected conditions had increased the cost of the projects considerably beyond estimates. "I completed them," he said, "at great personal sacrifice. It took every dollar of my personal fortune."

Partial Demobilization Ordered By The French

Paris, Oct. 1.—(AP)—General Maurice Gustave Gamelin, chief of the general staff of the national defense forces, today ordered the demobilization of more than 1,000,000 reserves called to the colors at various stages during the Czechoslovak crisis.

The first reservists to be demobilized following the four-power Munich accord are expected to return to their homes during the week-end. Measures have been taken to free vehicles and animals requisitioned for national defense purposes.

The partial demobilization marked France's jubilant return to normal, peace-time life on a day it had feared it would be at war.

Pekin Is Granted First Sewage Treatment Plant

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 1.—(AP)—The state sanitary water board today granted to Peking the first permit for a new sewage treatment plant to be issued since a program was started last spring to eliminate municipal water pollution along the Illinois river.

Clarence W. Klassen, technical secretary of the board, said several cities which empty inadequately treated sewage into the river have taken steps to correct the situation.

Klassen reported Federal grants for treatment plants have been approved for Peru and Marcellus. Requests for Federal aid have been made by Ottawa, Joliet, LaSalle, Morris, Oglesby and Havana.

Peoria Woman Raises Apples All Stuffed With Sausage; She Says

Herscher, Ill., Oct. 1.—(AP)—Preparations of all ages, sex and sizes convened today to show that while virtue is its own reward the vice of lying pays off in cash money.

Three dollars was the prize posted for the best story in the third annual statewide contest conceived as a preliminary to the annual Burlington, Wis., tournament where big league bombast flourishes.

An open air arena was selected for the meet, to be run tonight, as a safeguard against fainting spells by those likely to be overcome by the head-whirling narrations.

FEDERAL FUNDS SOUGHT TO AID K. S. B. HOSPITAL

$50,000 Addition Plan of Directors if PWA Help is Given

A project for which federal PWA funds will be sought is intended to increase the capacity of the Katherine Shaw Betha hospital in this city and at the same time to relieve a congested condition, was approved by the city council last evening. Attorney Robert L. Warner and Dr. David Murphy explained the proposed project, after which a resolution presented by Mayor William Slothower was unanimously adopted by the commission members authorizing the application for federal PWA funds.

The firm of Olsen & Urbain, Chicago architects, has drafted plans for the proposed addition, and the estimated expenditure involves a sum of approximately $50,000. The addition would be built adjoining the present hospital building on the northeast corner, the dimensions being 30 by 40 feet. The exterior would be of the same type as the present building with a basement and three upper floors.

Two 4-Bed Wards
The plans provide for two 4-bed wards on the first and second floors, which will increase the capacity 16 beds. On the third floor a complete and modern maternity ward would be located, with a delivery room and nursery with five-bed capacity.

The basement plans provide for an emergency operating room, waiting room, and demonstration class room. Emergency accident cases received at the hospital would be taken direct to the operating room in the basement which would join the present X-ray department and would eliminate the necessity of taking patients to the emergency room on the first floor, which is now limited for space.

The proposed improvement would be of the most modern type and would materially eliminate present congested conditions, the council was told. In the resolution adopted by the council, Mrs. W. H. Coppins, president of the hospital board; Robert L. Warner, attorney for the hospital and the firm of Chicago architects are empowered to apply for federal PWA funds to be applied as a 45 per cent grant in providing the much needed addition, the remainder to be provided by the hospital board.

Drunken Driver Halted by Officer on U. S. 30 Last Evening

Jacob Allen of Aurora pleaded guilty to an information charging him with the operation of a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition, which was filed by State Highway Officer Rex Flach in the county court this morning, and was assessed a fine of $10 and costs by Judge Grover Gehant. Charges of being intoxicated on a public highway were filed against Carl Ackerman and Joe Fenton, Allen's companions, in Justice Fremont Kaufman's court and both were fined $5 and costs each. An Aurora woman, said to be a former Dixontite, who accompanied the Aurora trio, was not prosecuted.

The state officer while driving toward Dixon on U. S. route 30 last evening about 7:30 met the Aurora car, driven by Allen about six miles south of the city, proceeding south. Officer Flach stopped the car when he observed the manner in which it was being operated, to warn the driver.

Fight Followed.

A fist fight was reported to have followed in which the officer was struck several times. The Aurorans were said to have left the scene and proceeded into Amboy where Night Officer Louis Scott halted the car and ordered them not to proceed in their condition. In the meantime Flach had notified the state police radio station east of Sterling, and a general alarm was spread to all state police between Dixon and Aurora, ordering them to stop the car.

Returning to Amboy, Officer Flach found the car and its occupants and with Officer Scott brought them to the county jail at Dixon where they were held until this morning when charges were preferred against the three men.

Gangster Tactics In School Cause Strike

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—(AP)—A specially-appointed principal took charge today of the Vaux Junior high school where 300 pupils have refused to attend classes because, their parents charged, they were robbed and beaten by a group of older boys essaying the role of big-time gangsters.

In a petition for the transfer of their children to another school, the parents asserted that the older boys, like modern hoodlums, were demanding pennies, nickels and dimes from the younger pupils as "protection" from beatings, theft of lunches, and other mistreatment.

The board of education, after airing the charges at a hearing last night, appointed D. William Zahn principal and authorized him to demand police protection for the children, if necessary. Benjamin Diamond, present acting principal, was temporarily assigned as Zahn's assistant.

WORK TO RETAIN TOURIST TRAFFIC IN LOCAL AREAS

To preserve, insofar as possible, the original route of the Lincoln Highway in Illinois and to retain tourist business which in years past has greatly benefitted the merchants in cities along the route, the Dixon Chamber of Commerce has joined the Illinois Lincoln Highway Association, composed of towns and cities along the old route of the Lincoln Highway. This association quota has been set at $2,000 for advertising purposes and Dixon's quota of this sum is $250.

The organization plans to erect a system of ornamental signs along the route, using varied designs to attract tourists to travel the historic route. Types of signs which have been adopted consist of 30 x 30 diamond shaped metal markers, with red, white and blue color scheme, arrows and bulletin boards. These are to be erected on private property with long term leases.

Cities vitally interested in preserving the old route include, Geneva, DeKalb, Rochelle, Dixon, Sterling, Morrison, Fulton and Clinton, Iowa. Reports from some of these cities indicate that estimated loss of business due to the re-routing of the Lincoln Highway over state route 71, has resulted in loss of business of more than a million dollars.

A committee which visited Dixon a few days and met with officers of the Chamber of Commerce, stated that the work of marking the historical Lincoln Highway was to start today, Oct. 1. Promoters of the plan state that due to the frequent moving of numbers of transcontinental highways, civic groups across Illinois, join hands to permanently remark the Lincoln Highway.

The movement was discussed today in the first of four regional teachers' conferences arranged by the association.

Other conferences are scheduled at LaSalle, Oct. 8, at Mt. Vernon Oct. 15 and in Chicago Oct. 22.

FEAR EXTENSION OF ROME-BERLIN AXIS TO LONDON

Germany's Troops Move Into Sudeten Land; Poles Win Slice

By The Associated Press
Czechoslovakia began a retreat from her frontiers on the south and west today and agreed to fresh cessions on the north while in England discord over Prime Minister Chamberlain's Munich accord caused a cabinet resignation.

While German regulars still were goosestepping over the frontier near Krumau on the southwest to occupy "Zone No. 1" of the Munich evacuation plan, it was announced officially in Warsaw that the Prague government also had surrendered to Poland's demands for a slice of Silesia.

Czechoslovak troops also began their retreat from the Eger region, on the northwest frontier, which under the agreement was not to be vacated until Wednesday.

In London Alfred Duff Cooper, First Lord of the Admiralty, announced his resignation because of "distrust" of Chamberlain's present and probable future course in foreign affairs.

Second Resignation
Duff Cooper's resignation was the second from the Chamberlain cabinet as a result of dealing with the minister's policy of dealing with Europe's disastors. Last February 20 Anthony Eden, foreign secretary, withdrew.

Duff Cooper had been reported from the first opposed to surrender of the Sudeten German regions of Czechoslovakia to Germany.

A Polish communique announced Czechoslovakia had agreed to cede the Teschen district by 7 A. M. C. S. T., Sunday with the Prague government agreeing to a plebiscite and evacuation of additional territories in the next 10 days. Poland had established a 5 A. M. deadline Saturday for acceptance of her demands.

France ordered the demobilization of more than 1,000,000 reserves called to the colors during the crisis.

The main body of German troops crossed the Czechoslovak border at 7 A. M. C. S. T., on the heels of an advance guard of 600 which entered the Krumau territory shortly after midnight.

Czechs Are Calm
The Czechoslovak government maintained strong police patrols in Prague and other cities and made frequent appeals to the people to keep calm during the crisis. There were a few demonstrations, but no disorders.

Great Britain, meanwhile, left Czechoslovakia to the map-makers and started looking toward a general European settlement. In diplomatic circles there was talk that Prime Minister Chamberlain and Premier Mussolini of Italy were near an agreement on the Spanish war—one barrier to full harmony in their relations.

Chamberlain was said by informed quarters to have asked Hitler and Premier Daladier of France for gradual demobilization of German and French armies as a prelude to settlement talks.

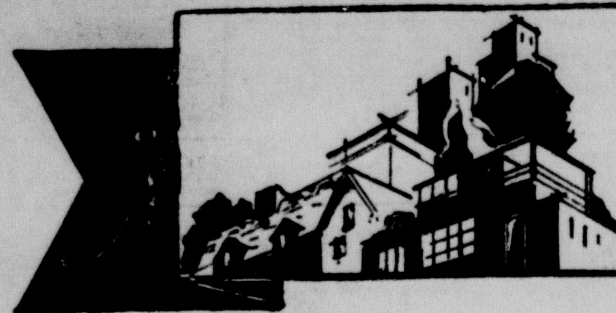

France returned to normal, peace-time life, but turned a wary eye to the future. Some observers saw a possibility of the Rome-Berlin axis being extended to London and leaving France shut off from the rest of Europe.

Lasso Around Mrs. Luizette Ends All Monkey Business

New Orleans, Oct. 1.—(AP)—A lasso around the arms of Mrs. Luizette, stubborn lady chimpanzee, today ended the "monkey business" troubling Audubon Park zoo. Since Wednesday Mrs. Luizette had been holding in her hairy arms the brand new baby of Mrs. Coco, another lady chimp.

Joe Margiotta, agent for the society for prevention of cruelty to animals, and zoo keepers finally roped Mrs. Luizette this morning and took away the starving infant. The bewildered little ape had had nothing to eat—and not a drop to drink—since Wednesday noon, when, just as it was born, its roughneck papa, Pete, slammed its mother up against the cage, forcing her to drop the baby to the floor.

At that instant Mrs. Luizette, who three years ago gave birth to a baby that died, dashed in, snatched up the newborn chimp, and marched off with it with a fierce grimace and growling the monkey words for "Anders Keepers."

THE NORMAN HOUSE

A Description

The distinctive difference between the English and the Norman house is that the latter has steeper roofs, small overhanging eaves and the placing and massing of the window openings have a peculiar character all their own. Norman architecture is one of towers, roofs and masses, with very picturesque composition. There are broad wall surfaces, of stone, brick or stucco, and many times several materials blended together. Often the brick or stonework is buttressed or parged over with stucco. Sometimes this is done with white-wash, which lends a peculiar richness of color and texture to the surfaces.

Pattern brickwork is much used under the eaves or in quoins, belt and band courses, and many times at the top of the chimney. Sometimes the brick or stone work is laid up in a square or diaper pattern or a brick pattern may be used in an ornamental cornice under the eaves.

Offtimes there is an outside staircase, with a roof built over it, or there is a high wall enclosure surrounding a small courtyard.

Graceful, quaint chimneys are a part of the design and many times there is a birdhouse high up in the gable.

Towers may be round square or hexagonal in form, oftentimes a tower is found attached to the larger one and may be used for a circular staircase.

The porches in most cases follow the pitch of the main roof and often are a continuation of the roof.

The special glory of the Norman house among humble folk is the kitchen, which is oftentimes the living room and sleeping room combined and contains a great open fireplace with a hood. Plain wrought iron andirons are suitable; in the more refined room brass andirons, tongs and shovel are used.

Tile or slate floors are typical, but wooden floors of wide boards in pine, cedar or oak are perhaps more livable.

ROOM SIZES

Do you know the minimum size suitable to the various rooms of a house so they will be comfortable and convenient?

The smallest practical bedroom is about nine by ten feet. A couple of feet added to each dimension is more desirable.

The dining room should be twelve feet, at least, subject to enlargement. Where a breakfast room is substituted for a dining room, be sure it is not too small. It should never be less than seven by seven feet, particularly if it contains movable furniture.

A reasonable sized bathroom is seven by eight feet, and a nine by twelve kitchen is about right, with fixtures and fittings efficiently grouped so that the work may be easily done and in orderly fashion.

A porch should never be less than seven feet wide.

CHIMNEY POTS

Chimney pots are always a picturesque feature of the design of a house. They may be of many forms—simple pots for Colonial dwellings, or products of English, Gothic, Tudor or Georgian designs taken from old manor houses of England.

For the city house, suburban home or country estate, these pots are practical and appropriate. They add a final touch that gives the chimney a definitely finished appearance.

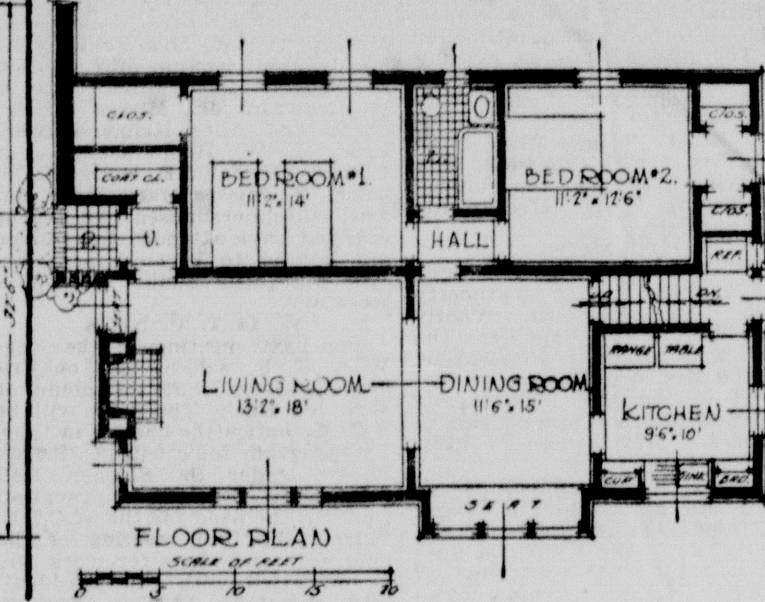

The chimney pot at its apex should not be less than two feet higher than the nearest peak roof and not less than three feet higher than the nearest flat roof. The top of the pot should not be smaller than the chimney flue, although a larger flue is thoroughly practical. A round pot can be used with a rectangular flue, or vice versa.

The first underwater highway tunnel in America was built under the Chicago river during 1866-69. It had two roadways and a foot-path, but now is used for surface cars only.

The planet Venus goes through all the stages from new to full just as the moon does, but, unlike the moon, Venus is brighter when in the thin, crescent stage.

In 1900 there were some 60 to 70 women in the entire country who could drive an automobile. Today women motorists are estimated at more than 10,000,000.

FIVE ROOM ENGLISH COTTAGE

This small five room cottage of English precedent has a great many nice features connected with its plan. In the first place, there are no long halls in the house, just a small passage connecting the two bedrooms, which occupy one side of the house with the bath between.

Notice the ample closet room provided in these bedrooms and particularly in the rear bedroom observe that there is a window between the two closets at the rear, thus allowing cross ventilation in this bedroom and also making a small alcove. R. C. Hunter, Architect, New York City.

ROOFING LEAKS

There is nothing more disconcerting than a leaking roof. Many claims made because of leaks are defended by the roofing contractor with the argument that the leaks were due to faulty flashing by the sheetmetal man or by some cause other than roofing work. Sometimes this is true, but often it is not; therefore, it behooves the home builder to have a roofing contract whereby the roofer shall also include the roof flashing or metal work so that the responsibility shall be undivided.

DINING-LIVING ROOM

Today there is a tendency, in building the small house, to eliminate the dining room and provide a larger, more spacious living room in which the family may expand somewhat and one part of which may be used for formal dining, while most meals are taken in a breakfast nook or bay built off the kitchen.

This seems quite a sensible solution of the problem of entertaining, because the dining table may be concealed by a screen, when set for a dinner party and for clearing away afterwards, and in case there is a buffet luncheon or supper, the table may be pushed up against the wall and the meal served with the table in that location.

Entertaining seems to be growing more and more informal, what with teas, cocktail parties and buffet style meals being served with the guests standing or seated at card tables temporarily set up.

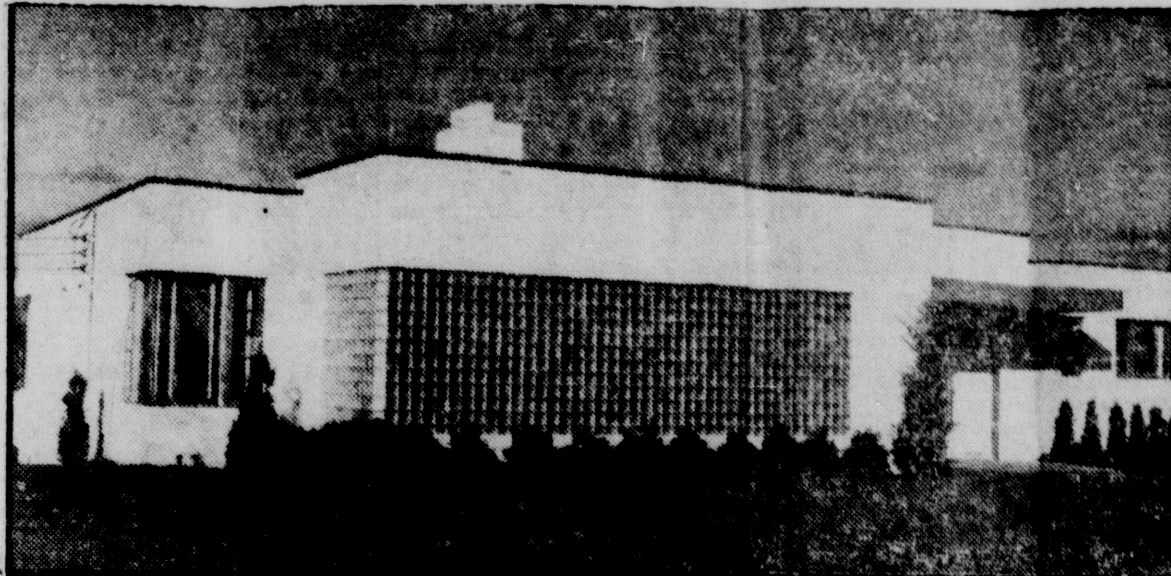

As the living room has the greatest use of all rooms in the house, it should be designed for comfort and beauty as the center of the home. A fireplace should be the central motif, and the room should be arranged as to wallpapers, windows, etc., so that the furniture may be grouped to best advantage for conversation between both small and larger groups.

Few persons ever have the privilege of seeing the night jay, a South American bird, so perfect in its protective coloration. Blending exactly with the tree on which it rests, the bird flattens its tail against the trunk, sits erect, and closes its eyes, eliminating all resemblance to a living object.

EXTERIOR GLASS WALLS

In this new home, built along the St. Joseph River at Benton Harbor, Michigan, the designer, Pasquale Lannelli, has utilized translucent masonry glass brick to shut off the sight of traffic. Because these glass bricks are not transparent, the designer was able to obtain much more natural diffused lighting for the living room without the sacrifice of privacy, and also to achieve a striking decorative architectural effect on the exterior of the building.

OVERLAPPING TAXES

Treasury officials are said once more to be concerned about overlapping taxes, and there has come from Washington the suggestion of a conference of federal and state officials with a view of dividing sources of taxation and reducing overlapping levies by other means.

Forty-nine competing tax collectors in this country have placed a heavy burden on taxpayers. These forty-nine represent the federal government and all the states. Treasury officials have pointed out that thirty-six states, in addition to the federal government, levy income taxes. Twenty-four states levy sales taxes which, some experts say, are similar in a sense to the federal excises on manufacturers of automobiles, radios and certain other items. Twenty-one states and the federal government have volume taxes on tobacco, not counting licenses. In the liquor field, especially, all the states and the federal government compete, and there are numerous other instances of overlapping taxes.

One concern of students of the problem is that competition of different agencies for the same types of taxes will dry up those sources, to the disadvantage of either the states or federal governments, or both. But the evil of overlapping taxes does not end with competition between federal and state tax collectors. There is also competition between state and local tax collectors.

Federal treasury officials are said to be much concerned about the burden placed on taxpayers. If we are to judge from comments, this concern, strangely enough, is based as much on bookkeeping aspects of the individual burden as on aggregate outlay for taxes demanded from persons. We fancy that the taxpayer will feel that this official concern is misplaced. He would not mind the bookkeeping if he could be assured that a real effort were to be made to reduce government costs. That is the true tax problem; the rest is merely incidental.

RESIDENTIAL BUILDING CYCLE

Business and industrial activity continues to gain on a widening front, but in no sector is this more encouraging than in the broad revival of building which seems definitely under way. Mostly it is residential building but there also has been a very considerable investment in new business and industrial structures.

The development is one that economists regard with an intense interest. Residential building appears to move in fairly regular cycles, of a good many years' duration from crest to crest. The last crest was reached and passed around 1928, many months in advance of the 1929 crisis of the basic business cycle. According to the cycle theory, a new wave of building has been due now for several years, but seems to have held off for various reasons connected with the depression and the character of the recovery from it. An infant building boom got handsomely under way in 1936-37 but was killed off, seemingly, by a swift rise in labor and material costs.

Many economists believe a new boom beginning now would stand a good chance of continuing until around 1945 and could afford a foundation for a sound prosperity lasting at least until that date. The repeated recovery movements the country has experienced hitherto since 1933 all have been recoveries primarily of the consumption goods industries. The capital goods industries, of which building and building materials form an important part, have lagged stubbornly. For a sound or normal prosperity these industries must advance along with the rest.

Thus the interest with which the new incipient building boom is being watched as a possible harbinger of prosperity. In the wake of it, of course, there would need to come a resumption of capital investment, not just in homes, but all along the line of the economic system. To that end there must be business confidence.

SIDEWALK FARMERS

More than a million persons moved from farms to cities last year, but there has been no decrease in farm population for the losses were more than offset by births and counter migrations—city to farm. So reports the Washington bureau of agricultural economics. The number of persons moving to farms last year was the largest for any of the last seventeen years, with exception of 1927.

Three major factors are held responsible for the population drifts—the business recession (believed by the bureau to have slowed down the movement from farms to towns, and to have encouraged an opposite shift), unfavorable conditions in areas most affected by the droughts of earlier years, and increased use of power machinery.

A curious recent outgrowth of increased use of farm machinery is creation of the "sidewalk farmer," who throws census figures out of kilter because of uncertainty as to whether to list him as of urban or rural population. The "sidewalk farmer" lives in a village or city and drives out to his farm. Use of power machinery frees him from the necessity of remaining on his farm except when his presence is needed in cultivating or harvesting crops. The "sidewalk farmer" is a new phenomenon, but the last few years have multiplied him by many thousands, especially in the winter wheat areas.

DANGEROUS DRIVING DAYS

Dangerous days are ahead for the motorist and pedestrian. Snow, ice, rain, fog, long nights and low visibility combine to make fall, winter and spring driving perilous and to increase the hazards of traffic.

Timely warning is given by the American Automobile Association to operators of motor vehicles and to pedestrians as the days become shorter and driving conditions become adverse. The warning will go unheeded by most but it will save lives and prevent a great deal of anguish.

Those who are resigned to the thought that no amount of education, propaganda, control or regulation can materially reduce the number of traffic accidents will find refutation in the history of the school patrol. Although the number of school children and the number of motor vehicles have both increased tremendously since the school patrols were organized, the accident rate among children going to and from school has diminished from year to year. Adequate control is the best accident preventive.

The automobile and motor truck have bested King Winter to become mediums of transportation in all seasons, but the driver who overlooks the fact that rubber finds its best traction on a clean, dry highway, and that the eye sees best through a clear windshield in clear weather, is likely to find the next several months dangerous months.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's Note: The Washington Merry-Go-Round's award of the Brass Ring is fittingly given this week to those who persevered for peace.)

WASHINGTON — Future historians probably will look back upon the ten years between 1928, when the Kellogg Pact was signed, and 1938, when it was forgotten, as the years which gave the world its greatest hope for peace, and its most tragic failures.

The American who played the most important role in those years was the Secretary of State who took hold of the Kellogg Pact immediately after its negotiation and tried to make it a living, workable instrument.

Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State under President Hoover, is a gentleman of wealth, aristocratic lineage and indefatigable driving power for peace. Almost unaided he staged a four-year struggle to rectify the injustices of Versailles and save off the forces which now hurtle the world toward war.

An age was dying—an age of international optimism, of disarmament drives and goodwill pilgrimages—the aftermath of the war to end war. An age was dying, and Henry L. Stimson, sensing the impending tragedy, struggled, almost alone, to give it renewed life.

The age of that era are important along the tragic path toward war.

First Test of Peace
His first struggle came in the summer of 1929, just as the diplomatic representative of the world gathered in Washington to commemorate the formal ratification of the Kellogg Pact. China and Russia were at each other's throats in Manchuria, and Stimson immediately jumped into the breach to make the new peace pact more than a mere parchment reposing in a dust-proof vault.

He called upon the Kellogg signatories to mobilize world opinion and to sign the pact. In retrospect, to note that the only nations which declined cooperation were Japan and Germany, both later to become the chief violators of the pact.

Stimson took his rebuff with the patience of a parent insulted by a punished child. He sat down and penned a statement which represented the peace policy he had followed and did follow—a statement which represents the high-water mark of American cooperation in world affairs. It made of the Kellogg Pact a new Covenant, replacing the Covenant of the League of Nations which the United States had rejected.

And Russia, despite its tirade, was impressed with Stimson's efforts and proceeded to settle her dispute with China.

Henry L. Stimson had won his first round in his fight for peace. Japan Invades Manchuria
The next round also occurred in Manchuria, which Japan invaded in 1931. Again Stimson held up the banner of the Kellogg Pact and urged its signatories to stand firm. And again important European nations hesitated, especially those which had stormed and sneered at the United States for deserting the League of Nations.

Finally Stimson saw that diplomatic notes and transatlantic phone calls were getting him nowhere. So, leaving a sick-bed in the spring of 1932, he sailed for Paris to demand to talk to the President of Europe for the first time.

Resting at Villa de Geneva, he called in Ramsay MacDonald, Chancellor Bruening, Duce Grandi, Andre Tardieu, pointed out that aggression in that faraway corner of China was a greater threat to peace than the menace of big guns in Europe. Unless the mad rush of Japanese militarism could be checked, he declared, the League of Nations would be a carefully nurtured peace university of the world was doomed.

The premiers of Europe listened carefully. They were practical men. Manchuria was a long way off. They were more interested in things near home. What could they get from Mr. Stimson for this faraway cooperation which he so ardently desired?

Andre Tardieu, the most practical, the most skeptical, the bluntest of them all, put the question. "Will the United States," he asked, "be willing to relinquish its traditional policy of neutrality in case of armed action by the League against an aggressor?"

Mr. Stimson gave the only reply an American Secretary of State could give, that such things were in the hands of Congress, but that every move which strengthened the world's peace machinery would have a favorable effect upon Congress.

So Stimson was turned down. He had come to Geneva empty-handed. He had nothing to offer except peace. Peace was all right as a principle, but to the statesmen of Geneva this was not enough.

Co-Partner Briand
There came a time, several years later, when Britain was to seek American aid in keeping the Japanese out of the British sphere of influence in central China; when France was to conclude that she could not condone aggression on the part of Japan, at the same time condemn it on the part of Germany.

But at that time Mr. Stimson was branded a naive diplomat, naive not only regarding Manchuria, but regarding the tireless work for disarmament. The only man who believed in him and worked with him was Aristide

Briand, co-author of the Kellogg-Briand pact.

Briand was dying. He was dying before men's eyes. He was dying at the conference table which he had dominated for years. He was dying, yet he refused to give up. He refused to surrender his dream of a new and warless Europe.

These were days when Briand remained in the Quai d'Orsay every night. His office looked out on an old garden sheltered by high trees in which roosted flocks of birds. And sometimes when he could not sleep and work dragged on, Briand stood in his great open window looking out upon the trees and the moon and the shadows they cast upon the garden, and remembered the days of Verdun when he was Premier of France.

Out among the poplars he saw again that line of men from the fields, the factories, the sea, going forward, and the line of women, wounded men, exhausted troops coming back. A panorama of his life lay before him on those nights to the days when he argued with Clemenceau that no peace could live in Europe unless built upon equality and understanding.

Most of his years since then had been given to rebuilding that equity and understanding between France and Germany. And he had failed.

Those were long and sleepless nights at the Quai d'Orsay. And long and sleepless nights for Mr. Stimson at the Villa Bessinge in Geneva.

"The leaders of Europe," Stimson reported to Mr. Hoover, "are fully aware that they are drifting toward disaster, but seem incapable either of lifting themselves from the quagmire or of accepting the leadership of outside nations."

"How bravely," wrote Briand to Stimson, "a simple dove, bearing an olive branch, can weigh upon a man's wrist."

Pressure on Lehman
Up to the very last minute before the Democratic convention in New York, the President tried directly and indirectly to persuade Herbert Lehman to take another turn as Governor. Various friends of the Governor were asked to intervene with him, and all sorts of counter-proposals were made by telephone to Ed Flynn, Sidney Hillman, of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, and others tried to keep Lehman in the running.

One proposal was that the Democratic convention get the senatorial nominations out of the way first, putting Wagner in the long term vacancy and Congressmen in the short term vacancy in place, thus leaving the Governorship the only vacancy left for Lehman.

After some consideration this was vetoed. Labor union friends of Lehman said they could not let him go, if he really wanted the Senatorship.

Then it was suggested that Gerard Swope, head of the giant General Electric Company, a liberal Democrat and a close friend of Roosevelt, be put forward as gubernatorial nominee. Labor leaders in New York, however, were not very keen about this, did not consider Swope a real liberal.

HITLER'S DREAM FOR GERMANY IS NEARING REALITY

Makes Gigantic Stride to Place in the Sun for The Nazis

Munich, Germany, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler has effected the greatest coup of his career toward his dream of a great Germanic confederation, a Germany greater than that of the pre-war empire.

To hundreds of millions of simple, home-loving, friendly folk in all countries the message "We give you peace" which came from the great four-power conference was sufficient in itself.

To be spared the horrors of another war filled their cups to overflowing.

But the four-power agreement has many and vital ramifications. Indeed, some of them bid fair to create in the coming generation history that may surpass implications of the present decision against war.

Here is the way things look to many statesmen and political observers today:

Nazi Aspirations
Hitler, having already gained Austria, has made a gigantic stride toward his Germanic confederation by which nazis aspire to become a dominant power of Europe.

The war-born Czechoslovak republic gives up territory of industrial wealth, and may, therefore, be reduced to an ineffectual small state over which Germany can command economic supremacy.

The reduction in size and economic power of Czechoslovakia will weaken materially the powerful military machine France sponsored in eastern Europe as a safeguard against German aggression. That machine was the little entente—Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania.

A weakened Czechoslovakia would eliminate her as what Germany in the past always considered a springboard for potential Russian attack.

An over-landship of Czechoslovakia would open the flood-gates for German economic control of the Balkans. It is an old dream of the former German kaiser, more near than ever before to reality.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. While not infallible, it is one of the best predictions that we have. It is as good a prediction of your grades as your own intelligence test. First, you inherit to a considerable extent the same abilities as your older brothers and sisters and, second, you have probably developed much the same habits of study and of life.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. The simon-pure extravert not only waits until he gets to the bridge before he crosses it, but hardly notices it is a bridge. If the introvert is going to buy a car, he either pays cash or else knows exactly where the money is coming from. The extravert who has enough for the first installment lets the agent worry about the balance. I imagine most insurance is bought by introverts. At least loan your money to an introvert if you want to see its color again.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. A study of this was made by a psychologist, Z. Pietrowski, and he concluded that it is only when one changes his attitudes that he becomes a changed person. As long as he looks at life in general in the same way he is still the same person and he has not changed. His outlook since childhood he is still in all essentials mentally and emotionally a child.

DON'T MARRY THE MAN

By Jeanne Bowman

The Characters
Kathleen Gregory: red-haired daughter of Angus Gregory who owns The Golden Girl mine.

Bridget: Gregory's secretary.

Chapter Three
Gold Incarnated

Having exhausted his patience and the battery on the bell connecting his desk with that of his secretary, Angus Gregory strode into the room.

"Miss Riley . . . Miss Bridget Riley, do you realize that I have been ringing you steadily for the last five minutes? For the final and the last time, are you my private secretary or are you not?"

Bridget snapped a rubber band on the last sheet of papers. "I have not been your private secretary for two hours and twenty minutes. You allowed me three hours to pack up and get out. I'm cutting the time to two hours and a half."

Swiftly she went to the closet to get her hat and coat. Kathleen watched her father. Behind perfectly tailored coats, his hands were clasped in the Gregory pose of intense feeling. They gripped each other for control. The war between diplomacy and stubbornness was visible in the agitated working of his heavy brows.

"I'll hold up your check," he threatened. Bridget fitted a mitre hat over her braids and smiled at the mirror. "I thought of that," she retorted. "I had the office boy cash it immediately upon your sending it to me."

"But Miss Riley, Bridget, damn it, all girl, you overdo it. Why I don't know how I'll well you can stay until you break someone in, can't you?"

"Dad, why didn't you think of that when you ordered her out? Angus cast a despairing glance at his daughter. "My dear child, I could not allow anyone to speak to a Gregory as Bridget Riley spoke to your Aunt Beatrice. I know. Best is exasperating but she is a Gregory."

Mutiny
"A Gregory!" Bridget had wheeled from the mirror. "You think your clan is the sun about which everyone else has to revolve or fall into space. You don't know there's anyone in the house except you and the earth. You think you and your gold are the heavens and earth. You're nothing but a big, gilt painted balloon and some day somebody is going to stick a pin in you."

She smiled at him then, and her voice lowered to a demure tone, concluded. "It's been so nice, knowing you."

She was gone. Kathleen looked at the door through which she seemed to have evaporated, then she looked at her father. "Dad," she warned, "remember the Gregory blood pressure." She darted in pursuit.

An express elevator had rushed Bridget to the street and when Kathleen reached the door she was departing in a cab. A low swung golden-red car slid to the curb in its wake. Kathleen jumped to the running board.

"Dan," she pleaded, "can you catch that cab?"

"If ye'll write to me nither and tell her I died in service," he sighed. The cab had been swallowed by the traffic. "I didn't know you'd ever had a mother," murmured Kathleen.

Dan swung the hood of the car around, mumbled, "What did you say?" Kathleen demanded. "I said," blurted the chauffeur, "belligerently, 'and how in the devil did ye expect me to be here. All right, I'm fired.'"

The hurrying throng paused as

Kathleen's laugh rang out. "No such luck Danny. Get in, I'm riding with you."

"You can't do that."

"Oh, can't I?" countered Kathleen and swung into the landau front seat. "Now take me to a telephone and en route, explain this mutiny. What's the matter with the Gregorys, don't they treat you right, pay you well?"

Dan, intent upon putting the golden car through the massed traffic, shrugged in resignation. "You're asking for it," he forewarned. "You pay us right, but there's never a thought you give to us as humans."

Like the Sun
"Seriously Dan, what do you think of me?" Kathleen asked abruptly. "I don't. I work for you."

"Suppose you met me at a dance and didn't know I was a Gregory; that I was just some new girl, what would you as a man think of me? Please tell me I need your help."

Dan sighed deeply. "Sure you can get this car back through traffic. If it's the same old 'be telling you, one of the other of us will walk.'"

"Is that that bad?" Kathleen groaned and for the first time a car he was driving rubbed fenders with a telephone. "For Miss Gregory, it's like the sun you are, fair blinding a man with your beauty. That's it he caught a whiff of your temper."

"Then?" asked Kathleen, eagerly. "Then he'd feel the red blood of him bolin' to tame you. His fingers would twitch with wantin' to get hold of you and shake the sense into you. You'd be a challenge to a man, Miss Gregory. I know. I met one like you."

Kathleen chuckled. "Have you tamed her?"

"She's married we are, my first vacation."

They stopped at a hotel and Kathleen telephoned her mother's secretary. "Break my engagements for this evening and begin with a cruise that will last a couple of months. I'll explain when I come in."

From her father's office she obtained Bridget's home address and back in it was silent. She must have her plans perfected when she caught up with Miss Riley, and when she again met her father the entire campaign must be ready for his consideration.

This was much more exciting than planning a benefit; directing amateur theatricals, or trying to curb an executive tongue in the board room. "Fussy old women," she mused, "left the actual work to a lone paid secretary. This was the adventure with a purpose and inspired by a motive."

A "rapid flapper" was she? A "vapid flapper" she was? The man was an impossible boor with a rotten temper. He was probably throwing up a defense mechanism to protect his ego from the knowledge that all girls disliked him on sight.

It was going to be a lark to bring him to his knees. She'd never yet met a man she couldn't win if she wanted to. Conquests were a matter of propinquity. She'd take care of the propinquity.

She would need Bridget. No one else could possibly take her place. Once she had given her word, Bridget could be trusted implicitly. (Copyright 1938 Jeanne Bowman)

SALES TAX IS GOLDEN FOUNT REPORT SHOWS

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 1.—(AP)—After five years, Illinois' three per cent sales tax is more of a golden fount than ever.

Director S. L. Nudelman of the state finance department announced the sales levy produced $80,917,601 during the fiscal year ended June 30, an increase of five per cent over the previous year. Aided by other revenue gains, the state closed the year with a net balance of $21,293,717 in its general revenue fund, an increase of $9,785,717.

Nudelman's annual analysis of state financing said Illinois was more than able to maintain its "pay-as-you-go policy." State revenues from all sources were $209,575,795 and disbursements $208,565,408.

He said the sales tax was able to show an increase for the year "despite poor business conditions during the first six months of 1938."

Besides the regular state revenues, $63,500,000 was collected under the unemployment compensation act to be held to the state's credit in the Federal treasury.

Second principal source of state income was the motor fuel tax, which yielded $39,223,568. The public utility tax produced $10,531,720 as compared with $4,321,629 the previous year for its largest single gain. Other revenues included:

Motor vehicle licenses, $21,154,627; liquor taxes, $11,052,410; insurance taxes and fees, $8,811,550; inheritance taxes, $8,407,275; and corporation taxes and fees, $3,102,463.

The United States has about four and one-half million colonies of honey bees that make about 160,000,000 pounds of honey a year.

One of America's largest gold coins—a fifty dollar piece popularly known as the "California Slug"—was sold at auction recently in London for $215.

Coy-Vaile Vows Pledged at Nuptial High Mass at St. Patrick's Catholic Church

Miss Lauretta Charlotte McCoy, youngest of Mrs. Margaret McCoy's four daughters, became the bride of Clarence Vaile, youngest son of Mrs. Mary Vaile of 410 Jackson avenue, in a simple 8 o'clock wedding ceremony this morning at St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church. A small group of relatives and close friends witnessed the nuptial high mass, celebrated by the Rev. Father T. L. Walsh.

The church was decorated simply, with vases of asters at the altars, which were in candlelight.

The choir sang, and Miss Helen Parker was soloist. Miss Parker's numbers were Cadman's "At Dawning," "I Love You Truly," and Roswig's "Ave Maria."

Miss Katherine Vaile, sister of the bridegroom, was the bride's only attendant, and Edward Hilliger served as best man. Joseph Vaile, and Robert Degner of Amboy, the bridegroom's brother and nephew, were ushers.

The bride was given away by her brother, James McCoy. Miss McCoy chose a simple frock of wine casino crepe with teal accessories for her wedding attire, and was carrying Talsman roses and blue larkspur in an arm bouquet. Miss Vaile wore teal alpaca crepe with brown accessories, and her bouquet was of pink roses and baby's breath.

Following the ceremony, there was a wedding breakfast at a local room. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Vaile left on a ten-day wedding trip through the north. When they return, they will be at home to friends at 608 West First.

Mrs. Vaile was graduated from Dixon high school. The bridegroom is a city employee.

To Dedicate Fireplace

A beautiful ritualistic service has been planned for the dedication of the outdoor fireplace above at the Dixon Methodist church on Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock.

The stones of the fireplace were taken from the foundation of a home built by Mr. and Mrs. John Richards in what is now Lowell Park, in the year 1836. The Richards became members of the first Methodist class organized on May 7, 1837, at Dixon's Ferry.

The Treble Cleff and Senior choirs will have a special part in the service. The processional hymn with lighted candles will start immediately at seven o'clock. Jane Wingert, who is of the fifth generation of the Richards family who have been members of the local Methodist church, will light the fire. Taps will be sung by the Treble Cleff choir and Paul Marth will play taps on the cornet.

By special permission from the city, the alley will be closed during the service and the people attending the dedication service will find room to stand in the alley or on the church lawn. The public is cordially invited.

CENSORSHIP OF RADIO HAS FCC UP IN THE AIR

Washington, Oct. 1.—(AP)—The Federal Communications Commission is up in the air again over a question of radio censorship.

This time a complaint that a broadcast of a Eugene O'Neill play contained improper language revived the thorny subject, which a Mae West skit last brought to the forefront.

Mr. and Mrs. George Peterson of Minneapolis objected, Commissioner T. A. M. Craven said, because in O'Neill's Pulitzer-prize play "Beyond the Horizon," broadcast July 28, "the word of God was taken in vain."

The commission split over what should be done about the matter. Craven related, finally voting four to one to hold a hearing on the question of renewing the license of station WTCN, Minneapolis.

Asserting renewals usually are granted without hearings, Craven said the commission's action was "fraught with danger" and was taken over his objections.

END OF SPANISH CIVIL WAR NEXT "BIG FOUR" JOB

Informed Observers Expect Action to be Next on Program

Washington, Oct. 1.—(AP)—An end to Spain's bloody civil war, usually well informed persons said today, may be the next goal of the quartet of European powers which worked out a solution for the Czech-German crisis.

In responsible quarters there was some expectation that the powers—England, Germany, Italy and France—would seek to impose a peace in Spain in somewhat the same manner they dictated terms to Czechoslovakia.

Informed persons believe Premier Mussolini may initiate the move for a settlement. Already there have been reports he intends to withdraw his troops. It is believed that he possibly desires to end the war because its continuance prevents his accord with Great Britain, reached last spring, from going into effect.

May Save Mussolini
Joint action by the "Big Four" would save Mussolini the embarrassment of voluntarily abandoning General Franco, the insurgent leader, and would be another proof of the efficacy of the four-power collaboration in Europe.

The conception of this collaboration was Mussolini's, traceable to his four-power pact proposed to Britain, Germany and France in the spring of 1933 and signed by them but never placed into effect, owing to France's reluctance.

Competent observers believe the four powers might effect a compromise settlement but they admit that would be a difficult task.

They regard it as more logical that the powers would sanction a complete withdrawal of volunteers, after which the Spanish government forces probably would win.

Authoritative dispatches reaching here indicate the two warring Spanish factions are in for a long stalemate and the conflict may well go on for more than a year unless decided action is taken to end it. It has already been raging two and a quarter years.

Australia has great areas of bush that are much more suited to deer than are areas of other countries that are well populated with these animals, yet not one is to be found there.

to be a party to any movement relating to censorship," he added.

Less than a year ago Miss West, burlesque screen star, brought a shower of complaints down on the commission with an "Adam and Eve" radio skit which some indignant listeners condemned as "indecent."

The commission called for a complete report on the program and the National Broadcasting Company banned the use of the actress' name in scripts broadcast by any of its stations.

FANFARE—

By DON DANIELSON

If it isn't snowing by Oct. 16 the Dixon baseball club will go to Walton for the annual chicken dinner and meet part of the Chicago White Sox team headed by Coach Billy Webb for a game there. Those from the Chicago club who are expected to play in this exhibition event are: Teddy Lyons, Tony Rensa, Joe Kuhel, Myers, Rip Radcliff, Merv Connors, Larry Rosenthal and John Rigney.

Rochelle high school, playing its first football game in the Rock River conference, defeated Mt. Morris at Rochelle last night by a score of 27 to 6. Four touchdowns were scored in two quarters. Gulo scored two touchdowns for Rochelle, Young scored one and May went over for the fourth. Mt. Morris scored on Kump's touchdown.

De Kalb high school's football team went under by a score of 12 to 0 at the hands of Hinadale last night. Buckle, Hinadale quarterback, scored the first touchdown in the opening quarter after receiving a pass from Pigott and dashing 25 yards to the goal line. The second touchdown came in the final frame when Thomas intercepted a DeKalb pass and raced 80 yards to the goal line. The lightweight game was scoreless. Dixon plays DeKalb here on Oct. 28.

In a nip-and-tuck affair at Polo last night the home-townners were defeated by Stockton by a score of 6 to 0. Fullback Vanderheyden of Stockton scored in the last quarter on an off-tackle smash.

Another Rock River conference game was the one at Amboy last night when Morrison invaded the Lee county grid and went home with a victory of 12 to 0. Amboy opened up with passes late in the fourth quarter and twice threatened to score, fumbling on the first scoring chance. Dykema and Austin made the scores. Burch made the placement.

Details of the delay: The Dixon football squad was two hours late in trotting out onto the field at Geneseo last night. The bus broke down a few miles out of Dixon and an S. O. S. was sent out for passenger cars to take the boys the remaining 55 miles to the gridiron. Paul Young was the driver of the bus and it is said the air brakes failed. A mechanic was sent out from town but his work failed to help.

While the crowd waited at Geneseo last night for the Dixon team to arrive, the Green and White boys entertained with a little six-man football, that game which is becoming so popular in many sections of the state. Six-man football is to the regular game what softball is to baseball. From where we watched this new business it looked as if everytime a player got the ball it was good for about 10 to 20 yards and touchdowns were frequent.

More Geneseo dope: There are 50 members in the Geneseo band which did field marching for the second time last night and did very well, indeed. The band is fitted in white outfits trimmed with green and the cheer leaders arrived in a green and white Model T. It was a sweeping entrance and a good show.

Waiting for the Dixon team to get to Geneseo there was plenty of time to look the field over and get the facts. It can be reported that the set-up over there is excellent with all the equipment necessary for watching the game in comfort. The stands are high and offer a clear sweep of the playing field. The ten steel poles which are topped with four bright lights on each were purchased from the Sally Rand exhibit at a Century of Progress and cost the school only $700 installed. The lighting bill is said to be from six to eight dollars per night, although last night's delay probably added a few cents to that estimate. The Geneseo lads report that the attendance at the games jumped from 200 to 700 with the installation of the lights.

Two hours late and a "fifth down"—those were the features of Dixon high school's victory by a score of 19 to 6 at Geneseo last night in an evening as crazy as a patchwork quilt.

The bus transporting the local team broke down a few miles out of Dixon and the players had to be taken in a cavalcade of passenger cars. The game began in a confusion which continued to a climax when one of the officials made an error in the number of downs and Dixon was given an extra one. Details below.

Both teams plunged into the fray in the first quarter and saw-sawed back and forth with nothing better to show for it than two first downs apiece and to even matters the ball was on the 50 yard line as the first frame ended. On the third down before the quarter ended Mock intercepted Bevilacqua's pass in mid field. On the first play Geneseo lost a yard on Rogers' attempt through center and the quarter ended.

On second down on a reverse from Mock to Hanford the hosts gained 4 yards. On the third down the ball went from Swanson to Hanford who threw a basketball pass over the line to Schroeder who raced to the Dixon 12 yard line before he was downed.

Swanson through right tackle went from the 12 yard line to the 8 yard marker. Hanford, through left tackle, picked up 3 yards to the five before Dixon took time out. On the third down Swanson was held for practically no gain. On a quarterback sneak through the center of the line Mock made it a first down to the 4 yard marker.

Geneseo Scores

A reverse from Swanson to Hanford was good for about one yard before Swanson plunged through right guard and tackle for the game's first touchdown. Hanford's attempt to convert failed and the ball was knocked down.

Then the fireworks began in the game's most spectacular play. With Dixon receiving, on the kick-off Page took the ball on his own 18 yard stripe and with the help of excellent blocking by his team he raced 82 yards for the first Dixon score. Bevilacqua's line plunge was good for the extra point to make the score 7 to 6 in favor of the Purple.

As the half drew near its close both sides opened up an aerial attack and two of Geneseo's passes from Swanson to Schroeder were incomplete. After a penalty of 15 yards on Dixon for roughness Bevilacqua's pass on Geneseo's 46 yard marker to Ashford on the 22 was complete.

An exchange of fumbles gave the ball first to Geneseo and then on the second play it reverted to Dixon on the 14 yard line when Page recovered Swanson's fumble and raced to the one and a half yard mark just as the half ended.

The famous "fifth down" with its consequences came early in the second half. On the kick-off the ball was downed on the Dixon 22 yard line where on the first place, Page went through tackle for a first down to the 35 yard marker. On the first play Geneseo was offside and it became first and

The exception, momentarily at least, to the rule "All good things must end," is the Million Dollar Tournament at the club.

Last Sunday's tournament evoked such praise and enthusiasm on the part of participants that an encore will be held tomorrow, October 2nd at 2 P. M. Dinner will be served after the tournament. Those desiring to dine at that time should get in their reservations to Mrs. Foster by Saturday evening early.

Bob Bovey and Maxine McGinnis won last Sunday's "Up-in-the-money" event when they finished the 9 hole tour with 15,700 pezozees, some 5,100 more potatoes than held in the hands of George Detreich and Miss Stiles when they finished their playing. Ken Stuart and Helen Krug had thirty-six hundred apiece to take third honors, while the newly-weds, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Detweiler came home fourth with an even six grand.

Bovey and McGinnis "cleaned-up" most of their fortune on the last hole and practically the last stroke when they added 4,000 bogus shekels to their already tidy sum amassed on the first eight holes.

Helen Krug sank a putt on the 6th green, variously estimated from 30 to 50 feet. This surprise stroke added considerable to her and Stuart's pile of pondulicals.

More than the 22 players who teed off last Sunday are expected to be in tomorrow's "wealthy" starters.

Mark Keller won blind bogey last Sunday morning for the men when he had a bogey 79. Werner Marlowh was second with 80. Warren Badger, Ken Detweiler and Cal Tyler tied with seven 5's for third place.

five for the locals Bevilacqua cut around left end for the first down to mid-field. A reverse from Bevilacqua to Moore was good for three yards through left tackle. Page smashed through center for 3 yards and Richards made it first down through the same opening on the Geneseo 40.

"Fifth Down"

On a criss-cross Bevilacqua fumbled and lost about a yard on the first down. After fading back for a pass Bevilacqua gained about a yard on a run back to Geneseo's 40. Two incomplete passes by Bevilacqua made up the third and fourth downs. On the play Dixon kept the ball when it was ruled that one of the officials became confused on the number of downs and Dixon had passed on the fourth when they thought it was the third and would have punted. On the "fifth down" Dixon on DID punt when Moore booted Bevilacqua's pass in mid field. On the first play Geneseo lost a yard on Rogers' attempt through center and the quarter ended.

On second down on a reverse from Mock to Hanford the hosts gained 4 yards. On the third down the ball went from Swanson to Hanford who threw a basketball pass over the line to Schroeder who raced to the Dixon 12 yard line before he was downed.

Swanson through right tackle went from the 12 yard line to the 8 yard marker. Hanford, through left tackle, picked up 3 yards to the five before Dixon took time out. On the third down Swanson was held for practically no gain. On a quarterback sneak through the center of the line Mock made it a first down to the 4 yard marker.

Dixon took the ball on their own 41 and Bevilacqua's pass to Page was good and the ball rested on the Geneseo 28 yard line. Page, through left guard, picked up about seven and a half to the 19 and Reese was stopped for no gain. On a reverse, Richards to Page, the latter was over for the third Dixon touchdown. A bad pass from center prevented the extra point. Dixon 19; Geneseo 6.

Geneseo opened up a desperate passing attack with two incomplete and one good for five yards before the game ended.

TODAY FOOTBALL SEASON GETS IN THE SWING OF IT

Late Starters Are Not Going About It Half-Heartedly

New York, Oct. 1.—(AP)—Even the ultra-conservatives of the football world—the "ivy leaguers", the belated starters of the Big Ten, Big Six and Mountain States conferences, and Notre Dame, Santa Clara and Rice—admit the gridiron season is here today.

While the rest of the pigskin-minded collegians swing into even bigger battles than those of late September, these late-starters join in with their curtain-raising.

The late starters are not going about it in any half-hearted way. Opening games for the old-line eastern colleges include Yale-Columbia, Cornell-Colgate and Harvard-Brown. Then Pitt, which began by walloping West Virginia, takes on Pop Warner's Temple Owls in a game that looks like the best prospect for an upset. Army meets Virginia Tech and Navy plays Virginia military.

Notre Dame in Action
Notre Dame swings into action in the mid-west against Kansas; Ohio State and Indiana come together in the first Western Conference tussle; Minnesota, victorious over Washington, takes in Nebraska, which upset the Gophers last season. Such games as Michigan-Michigan State, Northwestern-Kansas State and Wisconsin-Marquette round out a major part of the Mid-Western slate.

Rice's mighty team tees off against Oklahoma while Santa Clara opens against Stanford.

The southern and southeastern title races already have begun, and they'll be carried on today by such games as Tulane-Auburn. Clemson seeks another victory over a southeastern rival when it tackles Tennessee.

Arkansas and Texas Christian lift the lid from the boiling Southwest Conference competition while their rivals meet outside enemies. Texas takes on Louisiana State from the southeastern loop, Colorado State and Wyoming get things started in the Mountain States circuit.

"Big Seven"
Brigham Young scored the first victory in Mountain States "Big Seven" loop last night, trimming Denver, 20-0. Baylor's Bears whipped Oklahoma Aggies, 20-6, in the southwest. The University of Detroit conquered Western (Mich.) State Teachers, 7-0. North Dakota beat Morningside, 27-12, and Ohio University turned back Xavier, 14-12 in leading Mid-Western clashes.

Texas Tech defeated Duquesne, 7-6, in an inter-sectional game played at Buffalo and George Washington beat Furman, 7-0, on the eastern seaboard. From the Camps

Columbus, O., Oct. 1.—(AP)—

Two questions were up for decision today as Ohio and Indiana clashed in the Big Ten opener before a predicted crowd of 68,000, the largest football inaugural gathering in Buckeye history.

Primarily the contest was to decide which team should go on down the trail toward the Western Conference title, but a side issue was to determine whether Alvin (Bo) McMillen, coach of the Hoosiers, was a better "bear story" teller than Francis Schmidt, the Ohio mentor.

In pre-game statements the coaches painted drab pictures of their chances to win, both citing that sophomores studied their lineups and that they "just couldn't win with all that inexperience."

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Ferguson

ON THE UPPER SLOPES OF POU KUKUI, ON THE HAWAIIAN ISLAND OF MAUI, 562 INCHES OF RAIN FELL IN 1918... AND ONLY NINE MILES AWAY, THE YEARS RAINFALL AMOUNTED TO BUT 29 INCHES.

IN NEW ZEALAND, THE ABSENCE OF BUMBLE BEES PREVENTED THE FERTILIZATION OF RED CLOVER!

THEN, 95 BUMBLE BEES WERE SHIPPED IN, AND NINE YEARS LATER, THAT COUNTRY PRODUCED ONE MILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF RED CLOVER SEED.

WOULD YOU RATHER BE TREED BY A BLACK BEAR OR A GRIZZLY?

ANSWER: A grizzly, after reaching maturity, cannot climb. Thus, a person treed by a grizzly would be safe, whereas the black bear climbs readily throughout life.
